

NSEE Celebrates Family Literacy Day

Books are Hot! Hot! Hot!

Get out your sun glasses and sunhat!

Find your shorts and your hula skirt!

Do you own a lei?

Wear them all to school on Friday, January 29th as your NSEE family has fun with books and literacy activities!

Plans are underway for our annual observance of this great day! We will gather in the gym for stories, songs and a special performance around our theme. Students will be presented with their own book from the Home and School.

Word has it that Mr. Henderson has been getting his “spidey senses” tuned – what is that about?

What will we do with all those great new books the Home and School donated for the library?

Parents – want some ideas to celebrate the day with your children? Check out the website for the national organization
