Description:	The Young Canadians Roundtable on Health (YCRH) was created in 2013 in response to the interest generated by the report Reaching for the Top: A Report by the Advisor on Healthy Children & Youth. The YCRH is one of the only national youth-led, youth-run advisory committees that participates in decision-making around child and youth health. They work in partnership with The Sandbox Project, who bring leading individuals and organizations together to ensure that all children in Canada get all the support and care they need to become healthy, active, well-adjusted, and contributing adults in our society. YCRH are a group of 50 strong youth leaders between the ages of 15 and 31 from across the country who are driving meaningful change toward better health and wellbeing outcomes for young people living in Canada. Have you ever wondered how to get involved in various health initiatives or health research? There are many opportunities to get involved regarding youth mental health, children and youth health, health informatics, and much more! During this session, you will learn about the different opportunities available across the province, as well as nationally. You'll also learn how to approach researchers regarding your health concerns and what a CV is and how it is different from a resume. Please join Stacie Smith, Executive Director of YCRH and COE Health Intern as she showcases the partnerships, projects, and a summary of strategies they have used to engage Canadian youth regarding health and wellness.
